“ Hey old man...I miss you...
I miss how when we would see each other it seems like the world would just freeze time.... and just for a moment it was just me and you...How you would get lost at staring at me and I could see your deep brown eyes just glow up as though you were staring into the sun... I would watch you just the same...when you hugged me i would never wanna let go...even as an adult...the only one I could ever truly be honest with and would give me nothing but honesty back even if I didn't wanna hear it sometimes... we could joke about literally anything... I'm gonna miss your laugh Ill never forget it..i have the same laugh that deep laugh that came straight from your gut and a big smile going from ear to ear... no matter how far or long I couldn't see you we always found a way back to each other your my heart papo... I love you always and forever.... to the moon and back like mommy says... you always made sure I was okay and little man... even up to your last day... mommy would always tell me stories about you.. you were a dad who tried his best but you were also only human...i remember this one time we were eating at grandmas house and she spoke her broken Spanglish and tells us how much we are just alike... from how eat to how we talk all the way to our smile and that big nose of ours... i miss you...not enough time or words to describe how much... I promise to live the life we talked about and every step of the way i know you'll be around even still... you have taught me strength and still are teaching me to have strength...now you're with grandma... I know she opened her arms and welcomed you home...your at peace know daddy no more pain...until we meet again my little old man...I love you and promise to always make you more and more proud... forever and always your little babygirl...
